HOW TO SAVE CABBAGE FROM BLIGHT

Racine, Wis., Nov. 15.—Those persons who like to have just a few barrels of sauer kraut in the house in case of sickness or to whom corn, beef and cabbage is a necessity and cabbage salad a luxury owe an inestimable debt to Dr. L. R. Jones, plant pathologist of the University of Wisconsin and to the persistence of a group of Wisconsin cabbage growers along the west shores of Lake Michigan.

In the face of a blight which invariably followed continuous planting of cabbage and which practically threatened the extermination of the commercial growth of the plant, experiments conducted by Dr. Jones have saved the industry. The story is told by a writer in The Wisconsin Agriculturalist.

It is a story of a ten years' fight by scientists men using the weapon of selection and elimination against a disease known as cabbage yellows and which science finally has won. Today there are miles of cabbage fields in the truck section of Wisconsin and Illinois where a few years ago scarcely a trace of a crop would reward the best efforts of the farmer.

Cabbage grows almost everywhere in the United States but it was an unsuccessful crop because after a few years of production, land would invariably become infected with yellows would produce maybe a dozen maybe not more than one or two heads per acre. For some reason these heads would have a natural immunity to yellows. The theory was that the progeny of these individual heads would continue to develop the immunity to a larger degree and this has worked out in fact.

Much interest is being shown in the short pinhole tournament in which a considerable number of members of the Bohemian club are engaged.

George R. Call and John D. Labelle are the killing men who are doing jury service at the November sittings of the Windham county superior court in Willimantic.

Danielson heard Wednesday a story to the effect that the beautiful braids of Mrs. were cut from the head of a little girl in the town of Sterling early one evening this week by some man who made good his escape.

Brooklyn is to have another sacrifice Sunday. Next Sunday is the day appointed. The people of Brooklyn are to bring their Sunday dinners and anything else that can be auctioned off to advantage Monday evening to the town hall. It is hoped that Carl Winter will be able to serve as auctioneer. The entire proceeds will be sent to the Near East relief. Over 100,000 orphaned children are sheltered and given food.

At the service in the Unitarian hall Sunday evening at 7.30 one of the pictures shown will tell a touching story of a modern instance of the Good Samaritan. There will also be special music.

In 1910 when the Wisconsin cabbage growers were disheartened and about to abandon the industry, Dr. Jones selected a single head from a ten acre field owned by W. J. Hanches of Kenosha County. Cabbage is a biennial and it took two years for the seed to develop, but the ultimate seeds from this single head also proved to have immunity to the yellows.

They were planted and carefully conserved and studied and from this single head was developed the Wisconsin Hollander cabbage, a strain that grows luxuriantly in the worst yellows and diseased land.

A. J. Piper, Broesch Brothers, Walker Brothers and a few other lake shore truck growers were also conducting similar experiments and establishing the principle that by selection and elimination immunity could be developed.

Up to this year, almost no seed of the disease resistant strain was sent out of the state, although cabbage growers everywhere had watched the experiments clamored for it. There was not enough seed yet to supply Wisconsin nor in fact any more than for use for further growth of seed cabbage. The year the seed is being distributed by the college of agriculture of the university to other experimental stations and colleges where it will be used by them in overcoming their yellow infected cabbage land.

Asthma Is Dangerous

Folly To Disregard Its Warning.

Asthma is not only a disagreeable affliction but a dangerous one. The constant difficulty breathing, the choked up air passages, the struggle for air, the loss of rest, combine to force a great strain on the nervous system and heart—often to great a strain to stand.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a condition or to continually treat with ordinary narcotic medicines, which merely give temporary relief from the choking paroxysms and do not relieve or correct the real cause of the trouble. Instead get from Lee & Osmond a small bottle of Oxidase (essential oil) tablets and take one at short intervals whenever distress is felt and one on going to bed. Instant relief is usually felt and in addition the effect of consistent treatment is to gradually bring about a greatly improved health condition as the symptoms of asthma disappear forever.

Oxidase is the successful prescription of a Worcester, Mass., physician and its treatment of asthma, even in the very worst forms, has probably never been excelled.

Lee & Osmond sell it and maintain it is a safe, pleasant and inexpensive treatment to use.
